Beware of Skimming Devices

Skimmers physically insert a device into ATM machines or pay-at-the pump terminals at gasoline stations outside convenience stores, which steal card and sometimes PIN information. We encourage you to follow these few tips to keep from becoming a fraud victim.

- Always check your credit or debit card statement for any fraudulent charges.
- If you detect a fraudulent charge, contact your local law enforcement and credit union.
- Pay with cash or go inside to pay with your card at a convenience store.
- Use a pump closest to the view of a gas station employee.
- Look for a seal decal around the casing of the pump door to see if it has been tampered with.
- Report any suspicious activity if you should observe a person with a gas pump door open that is not an employee.
- At an ATM put your hands on the card entry slot and wiggle it to see if the skimming device comes off.
- At an ATM always cover over the PIN pad with your opposite hand as you are entering your number on the keypad.
